NOTICE

Town of Didsbury,
Assessment Roll, 1913.

Notice is hereby given that the assessment roll of the Town of Didsbury for the year 1913 has been prepared and is now open to inspection at the office of the Secretary-Treasurer of the Town from 10 o'clock in the forenoon to 4 o'clock in the afternoon on every day which is not a public holiday except Saturday (and on that day from 10 o'clock in the morning to 12 o'clock, noon) and that any ratepayer who desires to object to the assessment of himself, or of any other person must within thirty days after the date of this notice lodge his complaint in writing at my office.

Dated this 12th day of June, 1913.
B. A. ST. CLAIR, Assessor.

Public Meeting

A public meeting will be held in the Evangelical church next Friday evening at 8.30 to make arrangements for completing improvements at the cemetery. All interested are requested to be present.

AROUND THE TOWN

Art Roper of Calgary is spending a few days visiting with friends in Didsbury.

Geo. Sheline came down from Red Deer for a short visit on Saturday.

Harry Gabel of Red Deer paid a week end visit to his mother, Mrs. Gabel of Berlin street.

Rev. C. S. Finkbeiner of Hanna was a week end visitor with his daughter and other friends in the district.

Nearly 200 ten and twelve gallon cans full of milk and cream were shipped to Calgary on Saturday afternoon's train.

Mrs. (Rev.) M. Lowry of Moosejaw, Sask., is visiting with her daughter, Mrs. H. E. Osmond, for a few weeks.

The regular meeting of the Council was not held on Monday night, only Councillors Moyle, Osmond and Sec.-Treas. St. Clair being present.

H. Roeth has got settled in his new quarters in the old postoffice building and has put in a telephone, No. 114, for the convenience of his customers.

German services will be held in the Evangelical church on Sunday morning next at 10.30. All German speaking people are cordially invited to attend this service.

Tom Stark returned from Edmonton last week. Tom is going to stay at home now. He was disgusted at the continued ill luck of the Edmonton baseball team and quit.

Mr. MacCallum of Calgary with Master S. Doyle MacCallum and Byron Dwyer with Miss Jost of Halifax, Nova Scotia, were the guests of Mrs. W. D. MacCallum this week.

Did you hear the joke about the international band tournament in Toronto? A States band played the "Star Spangled Banner" for six hours and a Canadian band played "The Maple Leaf Forever."

At the "Bijou" on Friday night next the Alaska-Siberia pictures which were taken for the Carnegie Museum, Pittsburg, will be shown. These pictures are well worth seeing and the usual prices only will be charged.

Henry Metzgar, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Metzgar, had the misfortune to sustain a severe compound fracture of the right leg while working near Medicine Hat on Friday last. He was brought to the Calgary hospital as soon as possible and he is reported as getting along favorably. Mrs. Metzgar, his mother, spent the week end with him in Calgary.

A shooting match between two well known shots took place at Mr. McNaughton's range on Friday last. Andy Metzgar and A. McNaughton were the contestants. Alex made 83 points and Andy 80 out of a possible 105 points. The range was at 200, 500 and 600 yards. Andy lost one shot by the primer blowing out. Very good shooting.

The Y. W. C. T. A. held their meeting on Monday night and was very well attended. The subject was "Flowers, Fruits and Delicacies." Mrs. J. S. Daum gave an interesting address on this subject, also Mrs. Herner gave an interesting paper. After the meeting a social half hour was indulged in. Everybody was highly pleased with the results of the meeting.

Mr. J. Kamperman of the C. P. R. Forestry Department, who has been here for the last week putting the park into shape, returned to Camrose on Tuesday. The townspeople are especially well pleased with the work of Mr. Kamperman on the park. Unfortunately, it is said to be too late for the planting of the trees this season, but everything is now ready for putting them in next season. The grass seed is all sown and before long the park will present even a better appearance than it does now, which is a very great improvement over the old order of things.

The Wrong Box

Smiling, Pat strolled into the examination room, where candidates for the police force underwent their physical test.

Strip! ordered the police-sergeant. Phew! that! demanded the uninitiated.

Get your clothes off and be quick about it!

Mumbling and muttering, Pat disrobed, and the doctor proceeded to the test.

Hop over this bar, ordered the doctor.

Pat did his best, which landed him on the small of his back.

Now jump under this cold shower, ordered the doctor.

Shure, that's funny! muttered the applicant, as he obeyed.

And now, concluded the doctor, run round the room ten times, to test your heart and wind.

Pat hesitated then—

Oh! rot! he blurted out. Oh! stay single.

Single! inquired the doctor mystified.

Yes, single repeated the Irishman. What's all this fussing got to do with a marriage license?

He had strayed into the wrong office.

This one may seem a little out of date, said the salesman in the fur department of a big store, but it actually happened to me one day in the past winter. A woman walked up to the counter and said:

I'm looking for a muff.

Yes, madam, said I; what fur? please?

And she snapped back:

Well to keep my hands warm if it's any of your business.

BABY'S BATTLES.

Baby's battles for health are many. The precious little life is in constant danger from the many ills that afflict little ones such as constipation, indigestion, colic, diarrhoea, etc., and unless the mother guards her little ones against these troubles serious results may follow. Baby's Own Tablets is the best medicine to fight baby's battles. They are a mild laxative that will regulate the stomach and bowels and will thus ward off sickness and will keep baby happy, healthy and strong. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Wilton Lackage, the player, has a story of an animal show in the west where the principal feature of the programme was billed as "The Happy Family," the said family consisting of a lion, a tiger, a puma, and a lamb. Some one in conversation with the proprietor of the show asked how long these animals had lived together. Quite confidentially the proprietor replied:

About eight months, I think, but the lamb has to be renewed occasionally.

While passing an old-fashioned inn in Scotland some tourists were attracted by an aged bagpiper, who was tooting atrocious sounds through an instrument that was both dilapidated and squeaky.

Great Jericho, Sandy! exclaimed one in desperation. Why don't you have your bagpipes repaired?

The old man ceased playing and looked up in astonishment.

Havers, mon, ye dinna understand! If ma bagpipes wor in good tune the inn mon wadna give me twa shillings to move on.

Not a Bachelor

The Chicago Record-Herald relates that William J. Burns, congratulated on his success in capturing the Musca family, said to a New York reporter:

It is all a matter of observation and analysis. To the good detective every slightest action speaks volumes.

I, for example, was once looking for a widower. But the man I had under surveillance stoutly declared himself to be a bachelor. One morning however, I saw him pay a bill—and in doing so he turned his back to everybody in the room before taking out his pocketbook.

Instantly I laid one hand on his shoulder.

Come with me, I said. You are no bachelor. You are a widower or a married man.

The ease with which corns and warts can be removed by Holloway's Corn Cure is its strongest recommendation. It seldom fails.

Small Robert had been given oyster stew for dinner. The oysters were unusually large and after peering into the bowl for some time he finally swallowed one. Laying down his spoon he said: Mamma, I don't like them big hoppy loads.

Willie, aged five, was one day sent away from the dinner table for misbehaviour. He went into the kitchen and the maid said:

Willie, I'd be ashamed to be sent away from the table, as big a boy as you are.

Well, that's what a fellow gets by being born in a preacher's family, rejoined the little fellow.

When fiction gets busy facts become ashamed of themselves.

EVER HAVE CRAMPS, NAUSEA, VOMITING?

THEN USE NERVILINE.

For Stomach Pains and Cramps, No Remedy so Prompt as Nerviline

A Western Experience Related.

"It's in an unsettled part of the country like our far West that proves how valuable Nerviline is in the home," writes Mr. Patrick M. Dehaney, from Fort Saskatchewan. "Chills are frequent—a hot drink of Nerviline sends life circulating through the body in three minutes. Cramps or sudden illness at night is one of our terrors. No druggist or doctor is near, but if Nerviline is handy you can get relief. The worst cramps Nerviline has cured in my children in half a minute. I don't think any farmer's wife has any right to be without the protection of Nerviline. In our family we use it for a hundred ills, and it cures them all. One night one of my kiddies had earache and another toothache. Without Nerviline no one could have slept—I applied it as directed, and the children's pains disappeared. My husband uses Nerviline for lame back, rheumatism, aching joints and all sorts of muscular pains. It is as good inside as outside, and is as much a part of my home as my kitchen stove."

You find a thousand uses for a good family remedy like Nerviline. Get the 50c. family size bottle; it's more economical than the 25c. trial size. Sold by all storekeepers and druggists, or The Caturrhzone Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Making a Profit

A party of amateur pigeon-shooters some time ago arranged for a match and ordered thirty pigeons from a dealer in a neighboring town. The shooting was of a really wonderful character, but the actual performance need not be described in detail. The net results will be gathered readily from the following note, which was subsequently received from the dealer. It ran—

Gentlemen,—I beg sincerely to thank you for your order, and to intimate that I shall be only too happy to supply you with any number of birds on future occasions of this sort. The whole of the thirty birds, for which you paid me at the rate of 35c. per head, returned home in safety, and, moreover, brought with them a stray pigeon. My price to your party henceforth will be sixpence a dozen.

NO RHEUMATISM LAST WINTER

Montreal Man Conquered his Old Enemy by using GIN PILLS

Mr. A. Beaudry of 597 Panet Street, Montreal, thus expresses his great satisfaction with GIN PILLS.

"It affords me great pleasure to inform you that I have used GIN PILLS for about six months, and that they have done me a great deal of good. I have had Rheumatism for a couple of years, and last winter I saved myself from it by using GIN PILLS."

Not a Thunder Expert

The masterful manner in which some people evade an issue was mentioned at a recent dinner when this one was recalled by Rear Admiral Phillip Andrews.

In New Orleans one night, the admiral said, there was a man on the stage who offered to answer by mental arithmetic any question that might be asked by the audience.

Just so long as the questioner remained in the expected channel the sailing was easy, but finally one man got beyond the bearings.

If you please sir, said the man, rising from his seat: How far off can you hear thunder?

I can't tell you, sir, was the prompt response of the wonder on the stage.

You can't tell me? responded the fan. Why, I thought—

Not about thunder, replied the stage party, doing a quick piece of dodging. You see I am a lightning calculator.

Sensible Advice

Why, Henry, she exclaimed, what is the matter with you? You seem excited.

It was a minute before he could control his voice sufficiently to speak. I am, he snorted. I have been insulted.

How? Who did it? And her spirit rose.

By a scoundrel who came into my office this morning. I have nursed my wrath all day, and now I have come to you for advice. What would you do if a man were to tell you to go to Jericho and stop there?

As he strode about the room he kicked over the table and a couple of chairs.

Why, dear, she replied, after the impulsive manner of women and with the utmost sincerity, I wouldn't go.

Then he sat down and thought that a good wife's advice was an anchor to windward in a husband's most tempestuous moments.

The use of Miller's Worm Powders insures healthy children so far as the ailments attributable to worms are concerned. A high mortality among children is traceable to worms. ## How Concrete Work Was Made Easy For You

UNTIL a few years ago farmers considered concrete a rather mysterious material, that could be used successfully only by experts. They knew that upon the quality of the cement depended much of the success of concrete work. They had no means of testing cement, such as big contractors employ, and so could not be sure of its quality.

Yet the farmer needed concrete.

He was kept from using this best and most economical of materials by

1. Lack of knowledge of how to mix and place concrete.
2. Lack of a brand of cement upon the quality of which he could absolutely rely.

Canada Cement

has supplied both these requirements.

We employed men to make a thorough investigation of the farmer's requirements; to find out where and how he could use concrete with profit to himself; to discover all problems he might come across and to solve them. This investigation was expensive. But when it was completed we had the material for our campaign to show the farmer how and where to use concrete, and we printed a book, "What the Farmer Can do With Concrete," for free distribution. That book makes every farmer who reads it a concrete expert, as far as his needs are concerned. He finds that there is nothing mysterious about concrete—that a few simple rules supply all the knowledge required.

At the same time we met the farmers' second objection—inability to test the quality of cement—by producing cement of a quality that does not need to be tested.

The Canada Cement that you buy by the bag is the same Canada Cement that is sold by the train-load for great elevators, buildings and bridges.

There is a Canada Cement Dealer in Your Neighborhood

If you have not already done so, write for the book "What the Farmer can do with Concrete." It is Free.

W. J. ELLIOTT,
Principal Olds Agricultural College

School of Agriculture

The School of Agriculture now undergoing erection at the town of Olds will be open for students on or about November 1st. The school building will be completed toward the end of July, and will be furnished and equipped in a first class manner for the teaching of practical and scientific agriculture, domestic science, and household economy. The building is a most complete one, and has been pronounced by experts to be particularly well adapted to the purpose for which it is being built. The machine shop, carpenter shop, chemical laboratory and library will all be equipped in first class manner so as to afford the boys who attend the school the same advantages that they have in the first two years' course in any agricultural college. A staff of competent teachers will be engaged, and the work will be under the direction of Mr. W. J. Elliott, B.S.A., who has been employed for the last two years by the Natural Resources Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company as their Superintendent of Agriculture, and who will be principal of the school.

Mr. Elliott is well known in the province as he has assisted the Department of Agriculture at their short course schools and with the demonstration train, and has proven himself in that work perhaps one of the most efficient teachers in the different branches of agriculture in western Canada. Mr. Elliott was born on an Ontario farm in the county of Huron in 1875. In the securing of his education, Mr. Elliott is a young man who made his own way entirely, and the money with which he educated himself was made mostly by working as a hired man with neighboring farmers, than which there is no better experience for a foundation in agricultural education. It had been his ambition to attend the agricultural college at Guelph, and in the fall of 1895 he made his way there with a capital of $46, so that he practically had to work his way through the institution, which he did, graduating in 1898 with a degree of B.S.A.

In the spring of 1903 he engaged with the Dairy and Food Department of Minnesota to assist in the organization and erection of creameries and in the fall of the same year he took charge of the Dairy and Animal Industry Departments of the Agricultural College at Bozeman, Montana, and in 1908 was made Dean of the Short Courses of Agriculture in connection with this College, which position he occupied until January, 1910. This experience in connection with extensive work and teaching in the College of Agriculture in that State has especially fitted Mr. Elliott for his work here. In January, 1910, he accepted the position which he has just resigned with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and has been a resident of Alberta for the last three years.

Mr. Elliott takes charge of the school at Olds with a first hand knowledge of conditions in the province, as well as an enthusiasm for the system of agricultural instruction that is to be given at these schools. He is a born teacher and has the happy faculty of imparting some of his enthusiasm to his students. He has addressed meetings at different parts of the province of Alberta, and there are few men who can give his audience a better understanding of the subject he has under consideration.

The Principal of the school will open an office in Olds early in July and will spend the time between then and the opening of the school in making the arrangements, in visiting prospective students and in making general preparations for the work to be done. Any prospective student should address correspondence to the Principal of the school at Olds after July 1st, when he will receive all information in regard to courses, etc.

A two months' course in Domestic Science and Household Economy will be given for girls. This is preliminary to a full six months' course that will be put on next year. For particulars of this course address Miss Georgina Stiven, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, Alta.

There is no real need of anyone being troubled with constipation. Chamberlain's Tablets will cause an agreeable movement of the bowels without any unpleasant effect. Give them a trial. For sale by all dealers.

The Press and the W.C.T.U.

(By Miss Dolly Stark.)

The press is a very important factor in the world today, and its chief work is mainly to educate.

The W. C. T. U. are today doing a great work by means of the press. You will find papers, pamphlets and circulars in depots, halls and other conspicuous places. They also keep in touch with the outside world through these same agencies.

There are many lumber camps and mines, miles away from town or city. The only way in which to reach such districts is through the press. The men living in such places would appreciate any reading matter sent to them and would realize then that somebody cared. We, who are able to pick up our daily newspaper, magazine or book, little think what they would mean to those who have not our opportunities nor access to public libraries.

Our great northwest is rapidly becoming settled now, but we who were not the early pioneers of the vast country know very little of the hardships which they endured. I think to most of them anything from the press would have helped to make life easier.

Perhaps today there are those in different parts of the country west of here to whom magazines, Sunday school literature and any other papers would be very interesting and appreciable. It is our duty then to look into such matters, and what would seem a mere trifle to us might bring much happiness and pleasure to some others.

We might branch off from our subject and take up briefly that of books. We do not have to look far to get books to read, but good judgment must be used in selecting the best, especially from our more modern writers. Probably the main thing is to get a book which, after we have finished reading it, we can say we have learned something. By reading trashy literature we degrade our taste for good books. We do not necessarily have to read serious, tedious books. A good book of humor will make us laugh and forget many of the little worries.

Take a common illustration of the results of a good book, and one from which no apparent good may be derived. We have two girls of ordinary, high school education. One reads nothing but the light and cheap literature of various kinds, the other reads good literature of various kinds, and then engage in conversation with each of the girls. The one will speak in a very slipshod fashion, and you would scarcely realize that she was a girl of high school education. The other would speak to you in a pleasing manner, would also seem interesting on any subject, and probably you would find no room for criticism of the public school of to-day. It is said of some of the world's greatest and best educated men that they have never seen a college corridor. This fact explains that they have valued the habit of good reading and have made proper use of it at the opportune moment.

About three years ago the editor of one of the greatest daily newspapers (a Chicago paper) died. After his death the following was written in memoriam: "He was an educator of a million students of man's progress in the best things. He held school every day, and we were there, before breakfast, if possible. He was a great teacher. He never scolded. He was an encourager of the dull lads and lassies. He was never sarcastic. He knew the lesson so much better than the class that we respected him. He had humor and a wide range. His school found unity of life in his astonishing variety of lessons. We are thankful that he taught us. School is out now. Our teacher has gone away to learn, and forever. Hail and farewell!"

Not an easy man to manage or move from any purpose he had formed, was Murgatroyd's mental comment, after a rapid but fairly searching glance.

It is good of you to come, Mr. Murgatroyd. Let me introduce my friends, Mr. Pickering and Dr. Spencer. Both law and medicine are products of civilisation. These exact sciences could have no better representatives, Mr. Murgatroyd.

There was a deprecating wave of the hand, and half-movement of the great shoulders, as if to apologise for the implied question. Mr. Muller spoke without accent of any kind, but slowly as a man does who thinks in one language and translates into another while speaking.

I am a barrister. Murgatroyd was conscious that he was being read. The strong light of a pendant oil-lamp was resting on his face.

Mr. Muller seemed to have nothing at the tip of his tongue, but it was Pickering who actually spoke.

I think I have heard your name, sir, in another direction.

Murgatroyd did not help him. He regarded the conversation rather as an impertinence, and besides he had no wish to say more about himself than was absolutely necessary.

As a journalist, Pickering went on after a pause, slightly reddening, for he saw the topic was not appreciated. I write a little, Murgatroyd said coolly; but not sufficiently to be heard of outside a limited area in Fleet Street.

Muller read his visitor's dislike to the interrogation, and turned the subject by proposing cards. Little more was said until eleven o'clock, when the party broke up. Dr. Spencer and Pickering left at once, but Muller detained Murgatroyd.

You have a key?

Yes! The Falcon is liberal in that respect.

Then stop and have a smoke. There was nothing Murgatroyd desired more than a tete-a-tete with his host, although he felt already the certainty of failure in his diplomacy.

The man-servant had brought in whisky and soda water early in the evening. Mr. Muller handed his

Very Bad Case. Little Blisters Broke and Formed Scabs. Thought Would Be Disfigured for Life. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment a Month. Completely Cured.

Cold Brook, St. John, N. B.—"Cuticura Soap and Ointment certainly cured my little girl of a very bad case of eczema. She had eczema on her face for almost two years. First little white blisters covered her face, then these would break and form scabs, and they were very itchy and burning. I used to have great trouble in getting her to sleep at night. She scratched so I had to do all I could to prevent her, for sometimes she would scratch the scabs off and then it would be very sore and burning. She was certainly a great care. I treated her for it and also used different kinds of blood medicine, and ointment but got no cure. I thought she would be disfigured for life.

"It had lasted about two years when one day I saw an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment in the paper so decided to give them a trial. I had not used them for more than a month when she was completely cured. I cannot praise Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment enough. Of course I continue to use Cuticura Soap as I find it the best soap on the market for children." (Signed) Mrs. John Newman, Dec. 30, 1911.

guest some very fine Turkish tobacco. This is not to be bought in England nor anywhere else for the matter of that, he added. You English like apothecized hay. The niceties of a properly scented and flavored tobacco are lost upon the British palate. They had by this time settled themselves to smoke in lounge-chairs on either side of the fire which blazed cheerily in the wide hearth. Murgatroyd was nettled more at the tone of calm racial superiority than at the actual words, but it was not his business to quarrel with this huge German whom he had come, if possible, to propitiate.

I have never taken much pains to investigate tobacco from the ethnographical point of view, he laughed. I study men in all departments. I weigh them in the fine balances of a discriminating judgment. I generalise, but from carefully systematised data. My conclusions are born of a wide knowledge of men in varying circumstances spread over a long period of time.

Murgatroyd looked at his host with an even deeper scrutiny than the one he had vouchsafed him before. Muller interested him, while he repelled him. He felt he could weave about him an atmospheric web which would suit him exactly, an intellectual environment suited to the id tendencies of his temperament, but in his diagnosis there were mental complications still unraveled, depths as yet unsounded. He read a good deal in that calm, cynical, colorless, carefully shaven face, but there was more to read still.

What age was the man? When Murgatroyd first entered the card-room he had taken him for a trifle over forty but now, on closer scrutiny, after the fatigue of a well-fought game, he felt that to add twenty years to the sum might not be wide of the mark. The hair, what there was of it, was of the sandy hue which grows grey and then white almost unperceived, by graduation rather than change, a development of degree.

There was a long pause while they smoked. Muller had leant back in his arm-chair with his eyes closed, enjoying the fragrance of the weed which he smoked in a deep-bowled, carefully colored meerschaum pipe. Murgatroyd was wondering how to lead up to the subject which was absorbing his thoughts. It was Muller who first broke the silence.

I have studied you English the world over—in Africa; in America; on the continent of Europe; in your own country. He spoke with slow emphasis.

I hope your verdict is not altogether unsatisfactory?

I like you—some of you—very well. I like your nation, I trust you—not at all.

Murgatroyd shifted his legs. He was getting angry; yet he did not want to be angry. It is nearly always bad policy; it was more than bad policy; it was more than bad policy at the present time.

I thought it was only the Frenchman—not you Germans—who was ready to call perforce Albion at the slightest provocation, and when it was quite safe to do so.

I am not a German; I have forgotten my nationality. I am a cosmopolitan. In Berlin I am a Prussian, in Vienna an Austrian, in Buda-Pesth a Magyar, in Paris a Parisian, in St. Petersburg a Russian, in New York an American.

And in London? Murgatroyd was eyeing him, as a gladiator of old would have watched a competitor in the arena.

In London—with a little laugh, I read the Pioneer. It is a liberal education. The Pioneer amuses me. They know so much at the Pioneer—and so little.

Murgatroyd had begun to question how much his host knew of himself. It seemed a curious coincidence, if nothing more, that Muller had brought the Pioneer into the conversation.

Muller went on in the sort of half-soliloquy he affected—

No, I am never an Englishman. London is big enough for all the races, and they seethe and seethe in its midst. One day they will tear its great heart out—but that will not be yet. But if the German ever does land—then look at home. He will find plenty of allies, and all of them mind you, trained soldiers.

England will be ready when the time comes—if it ever does.

It will.

Murgatroyd took no notice of the interruption.

We shall never seek war. It is against our interests as well as our instincts. All we ask is fair play and our just rights. There is this Transalpine question for instance, and Murgatroyd shot a glance at Muller.

The latter was re-lighting his meerschaum, apparently only half attending.

When the pipe question was satisfactorily adjusted, he turned to the other—the international one.

Yes, there is the Transalpine matter; I have heard of it.

Most readers of the papers have, the journalist replied tartly. Such fencing was poor stuff as well as irritating.

I only read the English papers occasionally. They irritate me, and disturb my digestion. A man cannot afford to tamper with his digestion at my time of life.

I thought it was a generally recognized fact in foreign circles that our Press was second to none in the world—the Times, for instance.

And the Pioneer! Ho!

Muller gave a guttural laugh.

Your press is like yourselves. It is a bully! A take-all and give-none; a live and not-let-live. It bolsters up spoliation and robbery with a show of moderation and justice. Ah, it is hypocritical that Press of yours, friend Englishman.

Murgatroyd kept his temper, but with difficulty.

In this Transalpine question, at any rate, we are in the right without a shadow of doubt. There is only one evidential link wanting. Murgatroyd paused a moment then went on speaking very directly to Muller, who sat buried in the chair opposite, watching the rings of smoke from his pipe ascending towards the ceiling. The man who produces the necessary evidence will assist the cause of justice—and can command what reward he likes.

Muller chuckled. Ah! now we come to the point! You speak authoritatively, Mr.—Mr. Murgatroyd?

HER "BEST FRIEND"

A Woman Thus Speaks of Postum

We usually consider our best friends those who treat us best.

Some persons think tea and coffee are real friends, but watch them carefully awhile and observe that they are two of the meanest of all enemies for they stab one while professing friendship.

Tea and coffee contain a poisonous drug—caffeine—which injures the delicate nervous system and frequently sets up disease in one or more organs of the body, if its use is persisted in.

"I had heart palpitation and nervousness for four years and the doctor told me the trouble was caused by coffee. He advised me to leave it off, but I thought I could not," writes a Western lady.

"On the advice of a friend I tried Postum and it so satisfied me I did not care for coffee after a few days trial of Postum.

"As weeks went by and I continued to use Postum my weight increased from 98 to 118 pounds, and the heart trouble left me. I have used it a year now and am stronger than I ever was. I can hustle up stairs without any heart palpitation, and I am free from nervousness.

"My children are very fond of Postum and it agrees with them. My sister liked it when she drank it at my house; now she has Postum at home and has become very fond of it. You may use my name if you wish as I am not ashamed of praising my best friend—Postum." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

Postum now comes in new concentrated form called Instant Postum. It is regular Postum, so processed at the factory that only the soluble portions are retained.

A spoonful of Instant Postum with hot water, and sugar and cream to taste, produce instantly a delicious beverage.

Write for the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Studying Eastern Slope Forests
 The Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior is, this summer, continuing the study of the forest conditions of the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains, which was begun a couple of seasons ago by Mr. T. W. Dwight, M.F.

The result of Mr. Dwight's investigation has lately been published in pamphlet form by the Branch as their bulletin No. 33, entitled "Forest Conditions in the Rocky Mountains Forest Reserve." The forest reserve mentioned, it will be remembered, comprises the entire eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains, from the international boundary to a point farther north than the latitude of Edmonton. The study takes in only the southern part of the reserve.

In the bulletin referred to, Mr. Dwight describes the trees of the region and discusses the effect on them of altitude, aspect and other conditions. He also goes into the effect of fires, lumbering and other factors on the forest and its growth. Methods of lumbering are also discussed, with the idea always in mind of renewing the forest and getting a second crop of timber. Methods followed on the United States "National Forests" in Montana are described in this connection, and the bulletin concludes with a number of tables of a technical nature, showing, among other details, the yield to be expected from forests of the various types. A number of half tone cuts are used to illustrate the bulletin.

Copies may be obtained gratis from the Director of Forestry, Ottawa.

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR THE SPRING

Don't Use Harsh Purgatives—A Tonic is All You Need.

Not exactly sick—but not feeling quite well. That is the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite feeble, sometimes headaches, and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives, as so many people do, in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you this is true. What you need in spring is a tonic that will make new blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only medicine that can do this speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine makes new blood which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite and makes tired, depressed men, women and children bright, active and strong. Mrs. Maude Bagg, Lemberg, Sask., says: "I can unhesitatingly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a blood builder and tonic. I was very much run down when I began using the Pills, and a few boxes fully restored my health."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Some little girls were boasting of their respective families. They had passed from clothes to personal appearance, and finally came to parental dignity. The minister's little girl boasted:

Every package that comes for my papa is marked D.D.

Then followed a look of contempt from the youngest of the party. Huh! she exclaimed, that's nothing; every package that comes to our house has three letters on it—C.O.D.

Some time later, when seated at dinner, he remarked to a lady near him: Do you know, I grew this tablecloth myself.

"BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER"

Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves. Thinness of the blood, or anemia, is common in young folks as well as old. Especially is it the case with those who work in ill-ventilated factories—or those who are shut up indoors in winter time with a coal stove burning up the oxygen or emitting carbonic (poison) gas. This blood, or blood which lacks the red blood corpuscles in anemic people may have been caused by lack of food from air breathed in lungs, or by poor digestion or dyspepsia. Sometimes people suffer internal pain over the heart which is not heart disease at all, but caused by indigestion. Whatever the cause, there is just one remedy that you can turn to—knowing that it has given satisfaction for over 40 years.

Revenge or Gratitude

A Story of the French Revolution

By F. A. MITCHEL

The tyranny of the kings of France, supported as they were by the nobles, culminated during the reign of Louis XV. Under his and previous reigns the people endured oppression. Under his successor they turned like hunted animals and swept away both the monarchy and the nobility. In the early part of the reign of Louis XVI. the latter were still disposed to treat the people as beasts created to administer to the comfort and the pleasure of the aristocratic class. In the latter part of the same reign centuries of cruelty were expiated.

While the storm was gathering and the nobles, accustomed as they had long been to the obedience of the common people, could not think of them with fear, a hunting party sallied forth from the chateau of the Marquis de Chantallaine and proceeded to shoot birds, not in the marquis' preserves, but in the surrounding country. It was the season for game, which was in plenty. One of the hunters, meeting a boy some sixteen or seventeen years old, accosted him:

"Here, boy! Carry this gun and bag for me."

"And why should I do that?" asked the boy.

"Why should you do that? Well, upon my word! What do you mean by asking such a question?"

"I mean that I see no more reason why I should carry your load than that you should carry mine."

The man held a whip in his hand to be used on the dogs and, regarding the youngster as no better than a dog, undertook to enforce obedience, cutting him across the face with the lash. But the spirit of rebellion against such tyranny had found a lodgment in the latter's breast, and with his fist he sent him would be master sprawling on the ground. The huntsman, rising, deliberately took aim at the boy and shot him.

Only one other of the hunting party remained behind. Seeing the boy fall, he went to him and, slanting his wound, reproached the other.

"Why did you do that, Beaufort?" he said.

"Because the young dog was first impudent to me and then struck me. Come let us go on and join the party."

But the other did not go on. He remained with the boy, who was badly wounded; and when he was satisfied that it was the only thing to do carried him to his father's cottage and sent for a doctor. The latter, after examining the wound, said the boy would probably die, but this he could not tell.

"Here is money for your services," said the rescuer. "Attend him till he is well or succumb and report to me. Count Marivard, at the Hotel de Ville, in Paris. When this is exhausted I will send you more."

The count left, followed by the blessings of the boy's parents, while the boy himself looked after him as he passed out with an expression of gratitude to which words could have added nothing. He lingered between life and death for awhile, then began to mend slowly. Again and again his doctor reported his condition to Count Marivard in the city, and every time the messenger returned with a gift of money. At last the boy recovered and went to Paris to thank his benefactor. He found him an officer under the government and an influential man.

Ten years more passed before the great shock came which was destined to rid France of her oppressors. When the storm broke it swept over the innocent and the guilty. Even women and children were not exempt. The queen as well as the king was forced to mount the guillotine, while the daim—the heir to the throne—a boy of seven, was secretly disposed of in prison. Not only noblemen, but their wives and their grown children, went down before the tempest of wrath excited in a people by years of extortion and oppression.

Among the younger leaders of the revolution, now grown to manhood, was Victor Guerard, the victim of the Marquis de Beaufort's tyranny. He entered upon the work of regenerating France with the memory of his treatment burning within him. Each year since he had been shot had added to the wound in his mind, though that in his body had long ago healed. And when the people of his neighborhood congregated in groups to talk over the movement that was going on in the capital he was among them, showing them the scar left by the bullet of the aristocrat and inciting them to join in throwing off the yoke of the hated aristocrats.

When at last the first gust of the storm of revolution appeared in the courtyard of the palace of Versailles young Guerard was there with a scythe in his hands, a fire in his eye denoting that he was ready to cut down together the weeds, the grass and the flowers. When the mob broke into the room of Queen Marie Antoinette he was there. When the king was taken by the mob to Paris, Guerard walked with others by his carriage, still carrying his scythe. When the king showed himself on the balcony of the palace of the Tuilleries, decked with the cockade of the revolution, the man who had received the cut of a noble's whip across his cheek and had received his bullet in his body was one of the yelling crowd that derisively greeted the sovereign.

Then came what has passed into history as the reign of terror. Those of the so called middle—really the best—class, who had guided the revolution with a view to establishing a reform in the government, lost the control, and the flame they had helped to kindle burned them. The Girondists, representing the conservative, intellectual element, perished on the guillotine, singing the song of liberty they would have given France instead of the Napoleonic despotism that followed the revolution. After the Girondists—or, rather, at the time they were sacrificed—so called judges sat in improvised courtrooms for the purpose of eradicating the nobility that they might never again crush the people under their feet.

Victor Guerard was one of these judges. He wished not then so much to regenerate France as for revenge. He had had already enough to satisfy an ordinary person, but not for one who had felt the lash of an aristocrat across his cheek and the same tyrant's bullet crashing through his vitals.

One name, one face, he remembered—the name and face of the man who had shot him. He had hoped to meet this man, but thus far had not done so and feared that he had escaped with other nobles to Holland. He had in the beginning of the reign of blood handed in to the committee of safety the name of the Marquis de Beaufort as an enemy to France, which meant that he belonged to that class which must be eradicated and should be hunted down if possible for treatment by the guillotine.

One day while Judge Guerard was sitting on the bench—a chair before a rude table—dispensing with those accused of being enemies of France a man was led up before him on seeing whom he started. The prisoner was the man he was looking for, the Marquis de Beaufort. A gleam of triumph, of hate, of vengeance, shone in Guerard's eye. He could scarcely contain himself.

"Aha, Citizen Beaufort! I am happy to meet you again, but I doubt if you remember me."

"I do not," said the marquis.

"Do you recollect meeting a country boy some ten or a dozen years ago and ordering him to carry your gun and game bag?"

"I do."

"And the cut you gave him with your whip?"

"Yes; I remember."

"And the bullet you put in his side?"

"I am very sorry for that. I should not have done it. I was angry."

"Ah! You are sorry for it? Do you think, you nobles, being sorry for the centuries you have sucked the blood from the French people will save you now that we have you in our power?"

The marquis made no reply to this.

"I regret that you have but one head for the guillotine. I would you had a thousand heads that I might strike off one every day. I should rejoice to think that you were every day to be tortured by the remembrance that another head must fall before night. Guards, take him away lest I soil my own hands with him!"

"One moment, Citizen Judge!" cried the prisoner.

"Well?"

"When years ago I left you bleeding on the road one of the hunting party stanching your wound, then took you up and carried you to your home and called a surgeon, under whose care you recovered."

"That noble man saved my life. Were he doomed to the guillotine and I could go in his place I would do so for I am not my own, but his."

"Since the beginning of the revolution," continued the marquis, "I have seen this man and talked with him. He told me that there was one revolutionary leader in Paris whom he had befriended. He gave me this in case I should be in trouble and should meet you, M. le Judge."

Thrusting his hand into his pocket, he drew forth a scrap of paper, which he handed to Guerard. The latter opened it and read:

Citizen Guerard, I ask that you will befriend the Marquis de Beaufort.

The struggle that appeared in Guerard's face—a struggle between revenge and gratitude—is not to be described in words. He sat with the paper in his hand regarding the man he had just condemned to death. At one time a fierce light in his eye and a rush of blood to his face indicated that revenge had conquered. Then it seemed as if he felt the soft touch of an angel's wing, and the expression changed to one of childlike gentleness. While the struggle was going on every face was turned upon the judge, seeking to understand what this singular interruption meant. At last he said:

"Clear the room. I wish to be alone with this man."

When all had gone Guerard said:

"Where is the Count Marivard?"

"In England."

There was a silence for some moments, when the judge spoke again:

"My interest in the revolution is gone. I had hoped to see you perish and that I might have an opportunity to give my benefactor his life. Both these wishes are denied me. By this bit of paper"—crumpling it spasmodically in his hand—"you go free. I shall send you back to prison, telling those who have witnessed the scene just past that you have important information to give concerning certain nobles in hiding. Tonight you will be taken out ostensibly for a special execution. You will be driven to the border, where you will be safe."

He paused a moment with bowed head, then cried:

"Guard!"

Attractive.

"Why won't you stage my play, 'How to Keep a Servant'?"

"It isn't much of a play."

"The name's enough. Every woman would go if only to see how the problem is solved."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Wonderful Bee.

Maurice Maeterlinck, the eminent Belgian student and author, writing on comb honey, says that it is an article "to which we can add nothing, from which we can take nothing, an article that unites in equal perfection the science of the chemist, the geometrician, the architect and the engineer. Its masterpiece, the hexagonal cell, touches absolute perfection, a perfection that all the geniuses in the world, were they to meet in conclave, could in no way enhance. No living creature, not even man, has achieved in the center of his sphere what the bee has achieved in her own, and were some one from another world to descend and ask of the earth the most perfect creation we need but offer the humble comb of honey."

A Sure Thing.

Speaking of a sure thing, a congressman said that it reminded him of a conversation he had heard in the street regarding the proprietor of a lunch room.

"I see," said one man, "that Bill Jones has established a lunch room. I wonder if he's making any money out of it?"

"Making money?" responded the other. "With that location the only way a man could lose money would be to sit on the counter, take a big revolver and shoot all the customers as they came in the door."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Uses of Enthusiasm.

"I didn't know you were an especial admirer of the man who got elected."

"I'm not," replied the practical politician.

"Then why so much enthusiasm?"

"It's the only way I can suggest to my constituents that maybe I have some influence with him."—Washington Star.

And He Was Cruel to Her.

Lawyer—I think I can get you a divorce, madam, for cruel and inhuman treatment, but do you think your husband will fight the suit? Woman—Fight! Why, the little shrimp doesn't even come into a room where I am!—Truth Seeker.

A Trying Role.

"Remember, Arthur, you are the son of a gentleman. Try to behave like one for just one day."

"All right, mother, but it will spoil the whole day for me."—Life.

Framed Shopping List.

How many times have you lost the shopping list scrap of paper and returned home after a wearying day to find that you had forgotten the most important errands? You wouldn't have these experiences if you would make a frame for the shopping list—just a small affair of cardboard covered with tapestry—that will fit easily into your hand bag and can promptly be found. The frame is backed with a square of thin cardboard and fits under tiny nail heads at the sides of the tapestry covered pieces, and this need only be taken out and the paper list of errands slipped against the glass permanently attached to the frame.

Use For Souvenir Spoons.

One girl who is visiting the national capital is collecting spoons and cards of the various places of interest in and about Washington, and when she returns home she will give a table talk at a little luncheon. Beside each plate she will place two spoons and cards bearing pictures or seals of various cities, and during the luncheon the guests will be asked to tell some interesting fact about that particular city or place of interest, after which she will add just she has learned about each place of interest. This is a good method of directing conversation and making an occasion interesting.

FATAL MATHEMATICS.

[A man should marry a woman half his own age plus seven years.—Old Maxim.]

See how the fates their skill combine To spoil a tale of "might have been." They met when he was twenty-nine And she was only seventeen.

For years in absence they adore Each other, just as lovers do, To greet when he is thirty-four And she, alas, is twenty-two!

When next their mutual gaze they fix The waiting time was nearly o'er, For he was going thirty-six And she admitted twenty-four.

They parted then (as I'm alive, It was a piteous sight to see) Until he totaled forty-five And she had weathered thirty-three.

Their fates will never now entwine, Their courtship's course is nearly done, For she's a girl of sixty-nine And he's a swain of eighty-one.

—New York Sun.

Possibly.

"Why do they call lawyers' briefs so?"

"Because they make their clients short."—Pittsburgh Press.

Puzzled Him.

While going along a country road the driver of an automobile saw ahead of him an old man walking by the roadside, also a dog. The dog was not content to remain on the side, but kept crossing the road and was caught by the car and instantly killed.

The driver turned the car as quickly as possible and went back to see what damage had been done and found the farmer gazing sorrowfully at the remains of the dog. The driver took out his pocketbook and handed the man $10, asking if that would pay for the dog. He said it would, so the other got in the car and went away. The old man watched the car till it was lost to view; then, taking off his hat to scratch his head, remarked, "I wonder who owned that dog?"—Harper's Magazine.

Quality of Hardness.

Paul Hellen, the etcher of beautiful women, complained in New York of a certain hard quality in even the fairest American faces.

"Some of the most perfect faces I have seen," he said, "possessed this quality of hardness in a marked degree. They reminded me, indeed, of the girl to whom a suitor said:

"Miss Vincent—Annabel—let me prove my love not by words only, but by deeds!"

"Well, George," said the young girl calmly, "did you bring the deeds with you?"—Detroit Free Press.

Where It Was Signed.

The morning class had been duly instructed and enlightened upon the subject of our national independence. Feeling sure she had made a real and lasting impression with her explanations and blackboard illustration, the young teacher began with the usual round of questions.

"Now, Sammy Smith, where was the Declaration of Independence signed?" Sammy, with a shout of glee: "At de bottom, ma'am—that's what you said!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Real Trouble.

The college professor who says that children are merely little imitators and possess no imagination should become acquainted with our little friends, Charles and John. One day John, aged three, came running to his mother in deep distress. Upon inquiry the mother learned the cause of his tears.

"Muvver," wailed John, "Charles drew a picture of I got drowned, and he wouldn't draw a picture of he help me out!"—Judge.

Approved.

"I see," said the second story man as he glanced over the paper, "that there's a society in New York for the suppression of unnecessary noises."

"And a good thing, too," said his pal, "if they'll only get after them there boygar alarms. They never alarmed a boygar yet."—New York American.

Had Her Instructions.

Mrs. Subbubs (to neighbor's child)—Oh, there is the dozen fresh eggs I asked your mother to send over! How much are they, Mary?

The Child—Pleasem, it's 40 cents. But mother says if you grumble it's 35.—Boston Transcript.

SUMMER STYLES.

Have Bathing Suit Draped This Year.

MODED IN BLACK LANSDOWNE

Even the bathing suit has a draped skirt, and the very smartest models show short skirts over knickers falling below. The pretty suit illustrated is of black lansdowne—a silk and worsted weave that looks well when wet.

For the Dining Table.

The ever present fern dish as a centerpiece for the dinner table has become almost as much a part of the service as the knives and forks or as cereal for breakfast in the American household, and when one ventures to suggest that a change would be quite cheering to the spirits as well as the eye every one says, "But there's no other plant that can be depended upon!" There is, though, and a very hardy one. This is the flowering cyclamen, either white or the deep rose color, which will put forth new shoots and new blossoms continually from November to April, and it is such a graceful, pretty plant, which instead of growing less attractive after a few blossoms have bloomed and fallen, becomes bushier and more interesting each day.

The original cost is small, a dollar or so buying a very good specimen, and if planted in a wide, low flowerpot and set in a pretty basket one has a charming plant, suitable for any one of all of one's informal home meals.

Care of Parcel Post Plants.

When plants are sent from the florist by mail or express it is not advisable to pot them as soon as they are unpacked. Sometimes when they have been several days on the way the soil about their roots will have dried out so much that as soon as the moss or paper in which they are wrapped is taken off it will crumble away, leaving the roots bare. To prevent this untill the wrappings of the plant carefully, but do not remove them. Spread the plants out upon the floor and shower them well. Then cover their roots with a thick cloth and pour on enough water to thoroughly saturate the earth about them. Leave the plants for four or five hours before potting them. If this plan is followed it is possible to get them into their new pots without serious disturbance of their roots. After potting put them in a shady place and water well. Shower them twice a day for a week and give them plenty of fresh air, but do not expose them to hot or drying winds.

Quince Souffle.

Stew three or four quinces soft. Rub through a colander and sweeten. Pour into a glass dish and cover with a custard made with one pint of milk, three egg yolks and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Whip the whites of eggs light with three tablespoonfuls of sugar and heap on top.

Coffee Cake.

Take half a cupful of butter, a cupful of sugar, two eggs, half a cupful of molasses, half a cupful of cold coffee, two cupfuls of flour, half a teaspoonful of soda, a quarter of a teaspoonful each of cloves and mace and one teaspoonful of cinnamon. Bake in a long bar tin.

Didsbury, Friday, June 27

Westcott News

The past Sabbath was a sad one for this west country, it being the day for the burial of the remains of Mr. Wallin, one of this district's pioneers and a highly respected citizen. It appears he came from work at noon not feeling as well as usual and after dinner was persuaded by his daughter to lie on the couch, where he shortly afterwards expired from heart failure. Miss Wallin is now alone in the world, her mother having died five years ago.

We are pleased to hear that E. F. Braun is on the way to recovery from his accident of a few weeks ago. He is able to get around but is still unable to take up his work.

Elkton and Rugby schools are having a union picnic on Saturday, June the 21st. Everybody is invited.

Kyle Oliver and Harry Brown drove up to the lake east of Innisfail last week and caught several hundred pounds of fish.

Mrs. T. A. Murphy and Mrs. E. B. Hunsperger spent a few days at Calgary this week.

C. H. Rinehart was a visitor at Calgary this week.

J. Carruthers is staying with C. F. Moir for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross of Vancouver are visiting Mrs. Annie Ross.

Westcott's sports day has been announced for July the 4th. Everybody is welcome, and the men who are in charge of affairs will see that you have a good day's outing. Printed programmes will be out in a few days.

Funeral of Mrs. Fulkerth

(Knob Noster Gem.)

The body of Mrs. W. J. Fulkerth, accompanied by her husband and mother, arrived here Monday morning from Armstrong, Canada, on train No. 37. There also arrived Mrs. D. S. Carter, Miss Nettie Ferguson and Wm. Ferguson, aunt and uncle of the deceased, from New Haven, and E. O. Pace and family, uncle of Mr. Fulkerth. Miss Carrie Caldwell of Warrensburg, school mate friend, was also present at the funeral.

The funeral service was held at 11 o'clock at the Christian church in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends.

Rev. A. Sterling of Smithton, a former pastor, assisted by Rev. J. W. Boulton, conducted the service. They paid a tender and touching tribute to the lofty character and womanly virtues of the departed, whose life was as an open book to the residents of Knob Noster and vicinity.

The beautiful flower offerings and the presence of flower girls, the tears of sympathizing friends, all spoke of the high esteem in which she was held.

Her husband and children, her mother, brother and sister, all have wide sympathy in this hour of heavy sorrow. Her body now rests in the beautiful Knob Noster cemetery.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. Leonard Oakes, wife, Mrs. James Oakes, mother, Mrs. Frank Murdock and Mr. James Oakes, sister and brother of the late Leonard Oakes, wish to thank all the kind friends who assisted at the funeral and burial.

Camp Meeting

The second Interdenominational Camp Meeting under the auspices of the Alberta and Saskatchewan Provincial Holiness Association will be held on the beautiful grounds east of the C. P. R. at Didsbury from July 4th to 14th. The following workers will be present: Dr. E. F. Walker, President of the Illinois Holiness University, Olivet, Ill.; Rev. L. M. Williams, Rev. Thos. Bell and Rev. Chas. Thompson. Plan to be there Plan to stay through.

Contradictory Terms

An American visitor to Cambridge sought explanation of some unfamiliar terms, which a genial Don was delighted to elucidate. Full term, he explained, is three-quarters of a term, and the May week is the first fortnight in June. A day of general admission is the day on which men leave the University, or ordinary degree is one conferred by a special exam, and an inspector of art is one who has been an art student for at least six years.

The Yankee passed a hand across his weary brow. And will they, he queried, put me in the London train if I ask for a ticket to Cambridge?

George was famous for being late at his appointments. He was engaged to be married to a young lady in a neighboring city, and when the day of the ceremony arrived George, as usual, did not put in an appearance. The bride was on the verge of nervous prostration when the following telegram was received from the missing bridegroom:

Dear Helen—Missed the early train. Will arrive on the 4.31. Don't get married until I get there. George.

It Will Prevent Ulcerated Throat.—At the first symptoms of sore throat, which presages ulceration and inflammation, take a spoonful of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Add a little sugar to it to make it palatable. It will allay the irritation and prevent the ulceration and swelling that are so painful. Those who were periodically subject to quinsy have thus made themselves immune to attack.

Two women, one of whom carried a baby, entered a well-known furnisher's one day last summer and signified a desire to look at some carpets. It was warm, but the salesman cheerfully showed roll after roll until the perspiration streamed from his face. Finally one of the women asked the other if she did not think it was time to go. Not quite, was the answer of her companion; and then in an undertone she added: Baby likes to see him roll them out and we've plenty of time to catch the train.

Must Remember Him

A well-known goalkeeper while taking a stroll in a certain North Country town, was greatly surprised one day when a stranger rushed up to him, seized him by the hand, and shook it warmly.

There must be some mistake, stammered the football player.

Mistake! Oh, dear, no! broke in the stranger. That is to say, you are — aren't you?

Yes; but what has that got to do with it?

Oh, don't you remember when I shot at goal yesterday you tipped the ball over the net into the crowd.

Again came the reply in the affirmative.

Then, hang it all, exclaimed the stranger, triumphantly, you must remember me, I was the chap who threw the ball back again.

ALL THE TIRED NERVOUS WOMEN

CAN FIND A CURE IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Madame Perreault Tells How She Cured Her Kidneys With Dodd's Kidney Pills, and Found Health and Contentment.

Verner, Ont. (Special)—"I am very content. Dodd's Kidney Pills have made me well." Those are the words of Madame Eugene Perreault, a highly-respected lady of this place, and mother of a large family. For twenty years she was a sufferer. But let her tell her own story.

"I was always tired and nervous," she states. "I felt heavy and sleepy after meals. My limbs were heavy and I had a dragging sensation across my loins. My skin itched and burned at night. I had a bitter taste in my mouth especially in the morning. In twenty years I hardly knew what it was to have a well moment. Then I commenced to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Six boxes cured me."

Madame Perreault's symptoms were those of kidney disease. They are the symptoms of nine out of ten of the nervous, rundown, pain-racked women of Canada. Madame Perreault found a speedy and complete cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills. They simply cured her kidneys.

Just Like Men

Dolly was not quite six when her mother bought a flock of nine Plymouth Rock hens and a rooster, and diligently explained to Dolly that the rooster was the papa hen and the rest were all mamma hens. After two or three days of confinement, to accustom them to their coop, they were let out to wander about the yard, and Dolly was set to watch them. The hens stayed together nicely, but the rooster showed a tendency to wander into the next-door neighbor's chicken yard. Dolly chased him back time and again, until she was tired and out of patience. She turned her back for a minute, and when she looked round there were the hens by the coop, while the rooster was sedately pacing across the garden towards the next yard.

Dolly stamped her foot on the sidewalk and screamed: Come back here! Come back to your own family. The rooster proceeded with perfect equanimity. Dolly watched him for a moment with a look of utter disgust. Then her mother heard her say, very emphatically:

That's just like you men, anyway.

Lord Dufferin delivered an address before the Greek class of the McGill University about which a reporter wrote:

His Lordship spoke to the class in the purest ancient Greek, without mispronouncing a word or making the slightest grammatical solecism.

Good heavens! remarked Sir Hector Langevin to the late Sir John A. Macdonald, how did the reporter know that?

I told him, was the Co-servative statesman's answer.

But you don't know Greek. True; but I know a little about politics.

Where have you been, Frank? In Manchester. What were you doing there? I ran a photograph gallery. Did you get anything to do? Well, I should say I did. I put out a sign: Babies taken here, and next morning there were four of them left on the doorstep.

Thought It Was Poetry

A celebrated journalist once concluded an important article with a carefully composed and eloquent peroration. To his dismay, however, a printer's idiosyncrasy caused this peroration to appear to the world cut up into separate lines, and posing as a poetical quotation.

The irate journalist, conscious that some of his best work had been spoiled, rushed wildly into the editor's sanctum and pointing to the printed muddle, excitedly exclaimed—

Look here at this. See what that fendish printer has done. He has ruined—utterly ruined—my work.

The editor, with that serene composure and affability which is so characteristic of his race, listened quietly to a recital of the printer's crimes, and then gravely arose.

I will see justice done, my good fellow, he murmured; and then, armed with a copy of the paper, strode into the composing-room.

Jenkins, did you set up this? A compositor of the good old school came forward.

Yes, sir, that is some of my work. And very fine work it is, too, exclaimed the editor. Do you know that this is some of Mr. S—'s finest prose, and you have been thick-headed enough to set it up for poetry?

Prose, is it, sir? muttered the compositor. Well, I looked at that passage, and I read it for'ards, and I read it back'ards, and I read it like-wise upside down, but I couldn't make head nor tail nor common sense out of it, so I thought it must be poetry and printed it as such.

What He Wanted

With the air of one who has no moment to spare, she bustled into the bookshop.

I want a book for my husband, please, she began. It's his birthday, and I want it for a present. He'll be forty-four. Show me what you have—and be quick, please! Nothing too expensive, and I don't want anything cheap, either. He's a mild-mannered man, and not fond of sports, so don't show me anything in that line; and for goodness sake don't offer me any of those trashy novels; and no matter how you try to persuade me, I won't take anything in the line of history or biography. Come now, I'm in a dreadful hurry, and you have already wasted too much of my time here! Of course you don't know my husband, but from all I've said can't you suggest something appropriate?

The assistant lifted down a small volume from one of the shelves.

Yes, ma'am, he answered. I think I have the very thing. Here is a little book entitled: How to Manage a Talking Machine.

Nothing as Good for Asthma. Asthma remedies come and go but every year the sales of the Original Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy grow greater and greater. No further evidence could be asked of its remarkable merit. It relieves. It is always of the same unvarying quality which the sufferer from asthma learns to know. Do not suffer another attack, but get this splendid remedy today.

It's no use talking, remarked Banks dejectedly. It's impossible to make a woman understand even the first principles of finance.

What's the matter now? Inquired Henderson.

Matter! ejaculated the disgusted Banks. Why, when I was away yesterday the baby swallowed a three-penny-piece. And what does my wife do but call in a doctor and pay him half a guinea for getting that coin back.

Whether working for oneself or for others, no man or woman can do efficient work unless the health is in good condition.

Competition is keen these days, and success goes to those who are strong, energetic and ambitious.

From a purely financial standpoint you cannot afford to neglect the warnings given by headache, neuralgia, sleeplessness, indigestion, loss of energy, mental vigor and physical strength.

Most workers, whether their work is manual or mental, find themselves handicapped at times by a run-down condition of the system.

For all such we have a message that will bring joy and gladness into their lives. We want you to know about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great restorative, which forms new blood and restores feeble, wasted nerve cells.

By using this food cure you can instill new energy and strength into every organ of the human body. Pains, aches and physical weakness soon disappear, and health is brought up to high-water mark by

AROUND THE TOWN

The death of Mr. Robt. Moore took place at the Calgary General Hospital on Sunday, June 15th. Mr. Moore had been suffering from a sore foot caused by diabetic gangrene and was taken to the hospital a week ago to have the foot amputated, but blood poisoning set in with the result stated above. The funeral took place on Tuesday and interment was made at Didsbury cemetery.

Leonard Oakes, who was taken to the hospital of the Good Shepherd, Calgary, last week to undergo an operation for tumor in the throat, died on Thursday night last. His age was 35 years. The body was brought back to Didsbury on Friday and was interred in the Didsbury cemetery on Sunday. Mr. Oakes leaves a wife and two children, his mother, Mrs. James Oakes, sister, Mrs. Frank Murdock, brother, James Oakes, in Didsbury, and three brothers and three sisters in the States to mourn his loss.

The High and Public School cadets are putting in good work under the instruction of Vice-Principal Grant of the High School. This work, new to the Didsbury schools, is being undertaken with a view to the physical welfare of the boys and is proving a very popular form of schoolastic duties. The boys present a very smart appearance at their drills and show the hard work of their instructor. It is expected that the boys will go to Calgary the first week in July for a week's outing under canvas for which the government pay all expenses. Announcement in regard to this will be made fuller in next week's issue.

District Court Decisions

The following cases came up before Judge Winter at the District Court sittings in Didsbury last week.

Football Score 2-0

The first league game of football of the season was played at Didsbury on Monday night between Didsbury and Innisfail, and although the game was played in the twilight because the evening train from the north was late, the playing in spots was very good. Didsbury seemed to have a little the best of the game, although the visitors at times caused the rooters to hold their breath because of the extremely close playing around the home goal. Didsbury played a fairly good combination game and were able to break up their opponents' play, and while the score of 2-0 was in favor of Didsbury the story might have been a different one either way if the light had been better and time longer, twenty minutes each way only being played.

Grant was responsible for the first goal, while Owens, from a pretty pass by G. Sexsmith, Jr., was the hero of the second, which was put through just as time was called.

The next game will be played on Friday night on the home grounds. Red Deer will be down to give the home team a work out.

Baseball Game

On Thursday night the Carstairs baseball team will again visit Didsbury to play the game which was called off last week on account of the rain storm. A cracking good game is looked for as both teams are fairly evenly matched, so come out and see the game.

The possible line-up for this game is T. Stark, catcher; Scheidt, pitcher; Grant, 1b; Dugdale, 2b.; Pirie, s.s.; Gombert, 3b.; Reiter or Kaufman, c.f.; Good, l.f.; Whiteside, r.f.

The Didsbury team have been asked to go to Three Hills and Innisfail for a friendly game on July 1st, but so far it has not been decided which place the team will go to.

Card of Thanks

The Didsbury Baseball and Football Clubs wish to take this means of publicly thanking the Didsbury Orchestra for furnishing the excellent music for their dance last week free of charge. They wish the Orchestra every success.
